the choptank

The Choptank gets its name from the Choptank Indians who occupied the south side of the Choptank River basin in 1668; the area around present day Cambridge. The name is thought have originated from a word in the Nanticoke language, "tshapetank," meaning a stream that separates. They retained the land until 1822, when the state of Maryland sold it.

The oldest of the existing market buildings, Broadway market located in the Fells Point neighborhood of Baltimore City had gone through many changes including significant damages from a fire in 1960's resulting with the loss of the second story. It was the first of the three markets built to accommodate the dispersed population of Baltimore's boom years. To serve the sailors and immigrants of Fells Point, the market once consisted of four sheds that extended to the harbor.

Steve Paterakis came to America from Greece in 1921 and started their first business, H & S Bakery, in 1943. John Paterakis, son to Steve, would later inherit the business at 23 years old. John grew H&S bakery to be the largest private bakery in the United States and continues to serve the majority of rolls for McDonald's, Chik-fil-a, and Olive Garden throughout the country. He continued to invest in
